Unveiling the educational odyssey of mobile museums

MUMBAI: In an era where education transcends the confines of traditional classrooms, the advent of mobile museums has ushered in a dynamic paradigm shift. These roving exhibitions on wheels not only break free from the static nature of brick-and-mortar museums but also bring the treasures of culture and knowledge directly to the doorstep of learners.

Bringing history to life, learning beyond walls, cultural inclusivity, interactive engagement, community connection. 'Museum on the wheels' is the venture by the Chhatrapati Shivaji Maharaj Vastu Sangrahalaya [CSMVS] formerly known as The Prince of Wales Museum.

Today St Wilfred's School, Mira road had arranged this mobile museum in school premises and concocted to teach the students about the world's rich heritage and culture through the display of artifacts, demonstrations and workshops. The staff there was extremely well trained and welcoming. They well versed each of us with every hook and nook of the museum.

This was just to inculcate the concept of learning outside the classrooms, where the students were treated to a holistic learning experience as they got to do hands on work with interactive demo kits and also they were provided with a questionnaire to check their understanding for the same. They learned to transcribe their names with symbols used for the alphabets which was creative and interesting to decode.
